COMMENDING WISCONSIN NATIONAL GUARD UNIT

● Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, I proudly rise today to recognize the achievements of the members of 1st Battalion, 128th Infantry, part of Wisconsin's 32nd Infantry Brigade, for its selection as the top battalion in the Army National Guard of the United States. Mr. President, 1st Battalion, 128th Infantry has been selected as the winner of the Walter T. Kerwin Jr. Award for Readiness and Training for 2009. The award is given annually to the Army National Guard unit found to have the highest deployment readiness in the Nation, and I am pleased that the men and women of this Eau Claire-based unit were found to have standards of training and maintenance that exceeded the standards for deployment.

The U.S. Army has selected 2009 to be the "Year of the NCO" to pay tribute to the day-to-day leadership qualities of the noncommissioned officers charged with executing the training and maintenance that make their units function. In the spirit of the "Year of the NCO," I would like to pay a special tribute to the NCOs of 1st Battalion, 128th Infantry, as their leadership helped make it possible for the unit to achieve the standards that earned them this award.

I had the honor of attending the February send-off ceremony prior to the unit's deployment to Iraq. I consider myself privileged to have attended the ceremony where the State of Wisconsin and the soldiers' families paid tribute to the State's largest National Guard deployment since World War II. The soldiers of 1st Battalion, 128th Infantry spent nearly years training for their mission, and the high standards established during that preparation are now nationally recognized. I applaud the service of the members of the brigade, and I wish them success in their mission to help stabilize Iraq and look forward to their return home next year.●
